TRAIN RUNS ON WRONG TRACK; ONE MAN KILLED

Dense Fog One of Contributing Causes of Morning Accident

SECTION HAND HURT

Same Train That Brings Tragedy Bumps Into Workman at Allenport

One man was killed and another injured by northbound passenger train No. 145, due here at 6:37 o'clock this morning when the train traveled on the southbound track because of interruption of traffic by a coke train.

S. Melazi, aged 50 years an Italian section hand was struck and almost instantly killed near the Globe mine. It is supposed that he stepped to the northbound track to escape being struck, believing the train would be on its regular course. Dense fog prevented him seeing his mistake until too late. His body was taken to Roscoe and placed in charge of an undertaker. He is said to have been a single man and to have lived at California.

As the same train pulled into Allenport, still on the wrong track a section hand stepped in front of the engine with his back toward the oncoming train. He was struck, but not seriously injured. He is working today as usual. The fact that the train was stopping for the station probably saved his life. The train arrived in Charleroi almost an hour late.

The coke train that caused the accidents narrowly escaped a wreck and this was at the bottom of the whole trouble. It had broken into the north bound track near Stockdale and it was necessary for considerable shifting for the passenger train to get around it.

APPLES FOR POOR WITH COOPERATION OF THE FARMERS

The Pittsburg Association for the Improvement of the Poor through John Flaherty as superintendent an appeal to farmers through Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia for the apples which are going to waste in the country districts. Any fruit sent to the Association in 43 Fernando street, Pittsburg will be distributed free of charge to the most destitute families.

If farmers will give their apples, the Men's Industrial department of the Association for the Improvement of the Poor will send men to the country to gather them, and will sell to the poor at the actual cost of getting them to the city. Sales will be only to the very poor. The most destitute families will be helped first. Families under the care of the district visitors will be supplied.

Any farmers who will co-operate in this to help the poor is asked to send a postal card immediately to the Improvement of the Poor, in 43 Fernando street. All contributions or suggestions will be gratefully received.

RAILROAD DIVISION INSPECTED

Pennsylvania Officials Take Trip Up Monongahela Valley

FAIL TO STOP HERE

The annual track inspection of the Monongahela division, P. R. R. was made today by the inspection party consisting of R. L. O'Donnell, general superintendent of the Western Pennsylvania division and members of his staff. S. L. Long of Philadelphia, general manager of the Pennsylvania, was a member of the party.

The inspection party left Pittsburg early this morning and arrived at Charleroi at about 9:20. Evidently everything was satisfactory here, as the party failed to stop. Two observation cars one in front and one at the rear, together with two coaches, were carried. Friendly greetings were waved from the train to friends here.

At Monongahela a watchman was stationed at every street crossing previous to the passage of the special train. This was unusual. Fog interferred to some extent with rapid progress of the train.

CHARLEROI BANKER FIGHTS WITH BEAR

Story Leaks Out From Cameron County of Battle Kerfoot W. Daly Had With Husky Bruin---Party of Hunters Return Today

Stories of a sensational bear hunt in which the principal was Kerfoot W. Daly, cashier of the Bank of Charleroi, are contained in news dispatches which have drifted out from Cameron county. Mr. Daly, in company with Tom P. Sloan, Harry W. Scott, and Charles S. Van Voorhis, all of Charleroi and George Hosack, of Scenery Hill, has been hunting wild game for several days in that region.

In the story of the bear killing it is told that Mr. Daly shot the bear and went into the bushes to put the knife to his quarry. He found himself in close quarters with a very much alive bruin. In the ensuing scramble the bear refused to yield his life without a struggle and Dr. Daly did not emerge from the bushes until he was badly scratched up. His injuries it is stated, are not serious.

No particulars save those contained in the news dispatches have been received in Charleroi. The party is due to return home this afternoon with three bears they shot, and other game, including 36 pheasants.

MANY DEATHS ARE CAUSED BY TRESPASSING

Coroner James T. Heffran stated this morning he believed that the number of deaths this year from trespassing on the railroads in Washington county would be fully as large as in former years. He said that the railroad companies had taken many precautions this year that they have not taken in former years to prevent trespassing on the tracks, but so far there has not seemed to be any change in the death rate.

Coroner Heffran stated that he was not sure of the exact number of deaths from trespassing since the first of the year but thought that it was over 30.

CHARLEROI MAN CLAIMS MONESSEN GIRL AS BRIDE

Miss Eva Rapp, of Second street, Monessen, was married to Joseph Becour, of Charleroi, by Justice of the Peace J. A. Watkins of Monessen. They will not take any wedding trip at present, but will go to housekeeping in Monessen.

MONESSEN NOW FINDING STREET CLEANING COST

Estimates have been made at Monessen as to the cost of street cleaning.

The street commissioner's payroll for April this year was $916; May $921; June, $1239; July, $1161; August $743; and September $736. This totals $5716 for six months' street payroll, or an average of $952 per month.

Items included in the street commissioner's payroll are for all labor, sweeping streets, washing streets repairing paving and relaying paving. Work on sewers is not included in these monthly amounts, or the total.

It is found there were never more than 12 and never less than 7 men employed at the sweeping and washing of streets, so a liberal average would be 10 men at $1.90 per day at a cost of $456 a month.

The average expenditure of this department has been $496, per month for street repairing and relaying pavement.

The deduction from these figures is that local street cleaning and washing for six months has cost approximately $450 per month, instead of an average of $950, as believed by many.

VALUES AFFECTED BY COMMISSION DECISION

Fog Hampers All Traffic

Trains Held Back All Along Division by Density of Atmosphere

Dense fog this morning interferred somewhat with traffic along the Monongahela valley, and was an indirect cause of at least one accident. This was a railroad accident at the Globe mine near Roscoe where a man was killed, as related in another column. Trains were compelled to run slowly and nearly all of them were late during the early morning hours. Trolley cars were also hampered in their operation. Wednesday morning and this morning the fog was as dense as it has been any morning for years.

Correction of Railroad Rates From Mines Will Help Farmers

WESTERN END PROFITS

Avella Neighborhood Derives Direct Benefit---Difference Much Per Acre

The decision of the interstate commerce commission requiring the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad to make through rates on the coal from the Avella group of mines in this county to points outside the state, these rates not to be more than ten cents per ton higher than the through rates from mines on the West Side Belt railroad will have a very definite effect upon land and coal values in Washington county, particularly in the western end of the county.

The decision is the outcome of a complaint filed by the Pittsburg & Southwestern Coal company, the Pryor Coal company, the Waverly Coal company and the Avella Coal company against the Wabash Pittsburg Terminal, the West Side Belt Line, the Pittsburg & Lake Erie, the Baltimore & Ohio and other roads, declaring that the rates on coal from their mines are unreasonable and unlawful discriminatory.

No joint rates are maintained from the Avella group of mines, and the local rate of 30 cents per ton is charged by the Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal for hauling coal to Pittsburg Junction, while joint rates are in effect from mines on the West Side Belt Line. The complainants say they are entitled to the same consideration.

A reduction of ten cents per ton, while not appearing a great deal for a single ton, means a difference of between $500 and $600 on an acre of coal. This difference means much to the farmers and original holders of coal. The better rate for the Avella mines will mean a proportionate increase in value on the coal lands in that section of the county, an increase which will be of material advantage to the farmers and land owners.

TURKEYS NUMEROUS THIS FALL; ANNUAL STATEMENT MADE

A report is current that there will be a large supply of turkey for the coming holidays, it being stated that the weather last spring was favorable for raising the young fowls, the early spring being dry. Another cause for the large supply is said to be that the farmers have found such a demand for the birds that they have been raised in greater numbers than usual. However, consumers will do well to wait until the fowls are put on the market, for similar stories are often related when there is a small supply and reports that low prices would prevail proved entirely unfounded. For the past few years turkeys have sold at such high figures that they were considered a luxury above the purses of every one save the very wealthy.

CAMPAIGN PROMISES UNKEPT

That somewhat humorous chapter in the Democratic campaign book called "Campaign Promises Kept" ought to be supplemented with another under the heading of Campaign Promises Not Kept. It would be much longer, and serious.

Not only has the party failed to keep its promise to reduce the cost of living, but it has failed to keep many other promises made to the people in its platform, says the Philadelphia Press. It denounced in exaggerated language what it called "the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican Congresses which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil," and demanded a return to simplicity and economy, and a reduction in the number of useless offices. The party which declared this, and now in control of Congress, has made appropriations exceeding by nearly one hundred millions those of any Republican congress in the history of the country. It has greatly increased the number of office holders, added immensely to departmental expenditures, and nowhere economized. If it has found useless offices it has not abolished them. It has not only made no effort to reduce taxation, but has created new burdens and is now rushing through a new tax measure to wring from the people an additional one hundred millions, thereby "reducing the purchasing power of the people's toil." And this additional one hundred millions will just about cover the profligate waste of money in the increased appropriations over those of any Republican Congress.

Not only has the Democratic congress increased the number of office holders, but it has repudiated its platform declaration that "the law pertaining to the civil service should be honestly and rigidly enforced to the end that merit and ability should be the standard of appointment and promotion rather than service rendered to a political party." It has passed scarcely one administrative appropriation bill which has not contained a rider tearing away some part of the protection that under Republican administration has surrounded the merit system in the public service, and appointments have been made solely for personal or partisian service.

The trampling under foot of the one-term pledge is significant as showing how worthless Democratic platform promises are. But the repeal of the free toll provision of the Panama Canal Act after the party had declared for free tolls; the failure to keep the pledge to enact a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund: the neglect to provide a system of rural credits with which it allured the farmer, and other like failures, are monumental evidence of party insincerity and perfidy.

So numerous are the campaign promises not kept by the Democratic party that there is not space to recite them all—if such recital were necessary. Enough is given, however, to show that the Democratic platform was a mere flim-flam—"molasses to catch flies." Accusations were based on conditions that did not exist, and promises were made which it was not possible or not intended to keep. And on its record that party unblushingly asks the people to continue it in power!

POLICY AND FRIENDSHIP

Recently a certain individual declared himself particularly unfriendly toward the editor of a certain newspaper because of the newspaper's political belief. At the same time he inconsistently craved favors in the way of free publicity for himself and the institution he represented.

In so asserting himself, this gentleman pharisaically elevated himself in his own opinion to a high pinnacle. He carried around a sort of Monroe doctrine that anyone daring to contradict him was guilty of an unfriendly act, and should be held strictly accountable.

"Error of opinion is to be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it." This is the theory upon which most broadminded people maintain a peaceful existance. If a man is wrong it is up to us, in the light of our own understanding to convince him of his error.

One newspaper believes firmly and sincerely in the Republican policies. So in the past did Abraham Lincoln and William McKinley, two of the greatest presidents and finest men who ever lived. Others believe in the Democratic policies and are strongly partial to the theories advanced by Jefferson and Jackson. They believe in William Jennings Bryan and Woodrow Wilson. Still other newspapers and individuals believe in the doctrines of Socialism or Progressivism.

In its belief a newspaper is like an individual. Who is there that will condemn a strongly partisan Republican or Democratic voter for making stump speeches, or a preacher for preaching Methodism, if he is a Methodist, rather than Baptist doctrine, providing of course he is sincere?

Suppose a campaign for political office is hotly contested. That is no reason why a personal fight should be waged. Washington county has seen the detrimental effects of these bitter personal animosities arising from political campaigns. Thinking men and woman are not proud of having been forced to listen to the unmanly vituperation, but they are proud of the men or set of men who have refused to lower themselves to that level.

If a man persists in believing things we think are wrong, in all sincerity it is not our place to slander him for it. Such is a violation of the Golden Rule and a narrow-minded policy.

Fall

I care not how the birdies sing
Their charming farewell summer lays
I cannot say I'm crazy o'er
The beauty of these autumn days,
I care not for the glorious skies.
From beauteous green to burnished gold.
I care not for the glorious skies
Of fall the poets have extolled.
There's just one thought I harbor now;
A thought that stirs my very soul,
All else grows pale beside the fact,
I've got to buy my winter's coal.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A local Chinese laundryman who like all Chinese laundrymen and other kinds of laundrymen is possessed with the mania for acquiring great wealth, is nevertheless given to much complaining. While desirous of obtaining "mun" counted in "Melican man" dollars, he is desirous too of obtaining it with the least possible exertion—like some politicians.

Joe or Sam or Yee—whichever his name is—was muttering to himself over his irons the other day when an affable gentleman dropped in to get his half dozen collars left there four days previously.

Joe looked, rather glared, at the affable countenance a moment then growled, "What'y want?"

He was informed. "No done," he snapped jerking his head violently.

"When," ventured the A. G.

Mebbe to-morrow, mebbe next day. Too much work—dam. Can't do um all time. Boss gone. Too much work—dam. Mebbe boss he be back tomollow, mebbe Tuesday. Dam."

The affable gentleman tiptoed to the door and hastened out. Safely on the sidewalk, he heard

"Boss gone; too much work—DAM."

For the benefit of his audience at the school auditorium Tuesday night Montaville Flowers, the California lecturing on the Japanese problem, told the meaning of the phrase "economic efficiency."

"Just for the benefit of children," he said," and for those who do not fully comprehend, I shall explain.

"'Economic efficiency' is a Japanese who is able to keep himself on 15 cents a week and himself and wife on 30 cents a week."

A great many splendid flocks are to be found in and direcly around Bentleyville.

To Build Garage.

At present the old Crouch property on Main street is being razed for the sake of constructing a new garage on the spot. Boyer Brothers will have the garage constructed for James B. Galloway, who has a garage at present in the Solomon Malakoff building on Main street. The building now being torn down is one of the old landmarks of ancient Bentleyville. Originally it was log, later it was plastered, and still later weather boarding was placed over the logs in an attempt to modernize it. When this building is down the town will have lost one of the few remaining and prized landmarks.

TO KEEP HIS MEMORY GREEN

Boston Man Who Had Long Made Hotel His Home Remembered Old Friends in Will.

There is one face and one kindly smile missing in the lobby and dining room of Young's hotel that will be missed for a long time by those to whom the man who owned them had become a part of the big hostelry, says the Boston Journal.

The man was Henry K. Barnes, a man whom some called a "lonely old bachelor," without kith or kin. But these didn't know, as the employes of Young's hotel can testify to. For 40 years—as many as he had been a guest of the hotel—the old man had many kith, and they ranged from the pretty young telephone girls in the lobby down to the aging head waiter, George Betts, who had been in the hotel as long as Mr. Barnes, a member of the firm of R. K. Barnes & Co., manufacturer of leather supplies, had been there himself.

As an evidence of the esteem in which he held these friends, the old man, "without kith or kin," has left many bequests to his friends in the hotel, and they are telling over there of the many things he did while making the hotel his home to make life a bit more cheerful for those with whom he came in daily contact. There are instances told of how he sent young stenographers home in taxicabs when the rain or snow was bad—there are others who are keeping post cards sent them by Mr. Barnes from far southern places when he was away on business trips—and for Christmas gifts and ordinary gifts they are saying at Young's that it will be a long time before any one can take his place.

FIXED HIM FOR THE EVENING

Wherever He Went, Wife Was Pretty Sure Hubby Would Not Do Any Roof Gardening.

Dr. A. F. Christian, a Boston physician, announces that ice cream is the best remedy for alcoholism. At a recent luncheon, Doctor Christian, apropos of this fact, told a story.

"Roof gardens," he said, "and roof gardening, during the wife's absence at the seashore, are responsible for a good deal of midsummer alcoholism. But, if the wife is home, she can restrain the roof-gardening tendencies on her husband's part.

"Thus, a would-be roof gardener said to his wife the other evening after dinner:

"'I'll have to return to the office right away, my dear. And I'm afraid I'll be kept rather late. I've got to post my books for the entire month.'

"'Will you be going anywhere else besides the office?' she said, calmly.

"'Er—no,' he replied.

"'Then,' said she, 'I'll just ask you to stop in at the corner grocery before it closes and get me a couple of nice salt mackerel. You can bring them home with you afterward.'

"'Er—all right,' he muttered.

"Then, as he set out, gloomily, his wife said to herself with a smile:

"'Well, I guess he won't do much roof-gardening tonight with two great big wet mackerel in his pocket.'"

Latest Engine of Warfare.

A terrible weapon of warfare has been invented. In the British Naval Annual for 1914, just published, there is a description of a contrivance that might almost be described as devilish.

It is of the Leon torpedo mine, which has now been acquired and is being manufactured by a British firm. This engine is so constructed that it can be set to hover between any depths below the surface that may be desired. When placed in the water it has a slight negative buoyancy, and sinks until automatically a propeller is brought into action which drives it upwards again. It can be used in the open sea by any type of ship, or, in the case of tidal harbors, it could be released by a vessel outside so as to make its way with the tide into the anchorage, and perhaps destroy shipping there. A touch on the deadly steel "whiskers" which project from its upper surface, and the enemy would be sent to the bottom.

Practical Danish Schools.

In the schools of Denmark, "reading and spelling are not mechanized and treated as arts complete in themselves, but taught in an incidental way. Separate spelling is unknown." These schools have been carefully studied by men sent by Commissioner Claxton to find out how they have changed "a poor, war-crippled country into a rich, happy one." Character development is one of the chief aims of the folk high school, and men and women of all ages go to school to learn how to do their daily work better. The men attend mainly in winter and the women in summer.—The World's Chronicles.

No Piker.

"Of course you know what our curriculum is?" said the head of a young woman's finishing school to Mr. Newrocks, who had called to enter his daughter.

"No, I don't," answered Mr. Newrocks, "but put that in the bill, too, and I'll pay for it."

Two ways of getting along.

Which wins?

Now and then, we hear people say that they can get along without a typewriter. Yes, we believe that. Only forty years ago everybody got along without one.

So they did, a little further back, without the steam engine and the railroad train. They got along without them because there were none.

Anyone today who thinks he can get along without the typewriter because he can do his writing with the pen, is like the man who thinks he doesn't need the railroad because he can walk. In your method of writing you may be "walking" today. If so, then remember that the railroad is built and—

PECULIAR GAME OF "FOOTBALL" IN SOUTH AMERICA.

Among the Odd Things Observed by Theodore Roosevelt in His Travels This Sport Is Noted as Worth Recording.

Well, these Parecis Indians enthusiastically play football with their heads. The game is not only native to them, but I have never heard or read of its being played by any other tribe or people. They use a light hollow rubber ball, of their own manufacture. It is circular and about eight inches in diameter. The players are divided into two sides, and stationed much as in association football, and the ball is placed on the ground to put in play, as in football. Then a player runs forward, throws himself flat on the ground and butts the ball toward the opposite side. This first butt, when the ball is on the ground, never lifts it much and it rolls and bounds toward the opponents. One or two of the latter run toward it; one throws himself flat on his face and butts the ball back. Usually this butt lifts it, and it flies back in a curve well up in the air, and an opposite player, rushing toward it, catches it on his head with such a swing of his brawny neck, and such precision and address, that the ball bounds back through the air as a football soars after a drop kick. If the ball flies off to one side or the other it is brought back, and again put into play. Often it will be sent to and fro a dozen times, from head to head, until finally it rises with such a sweep that it passes far over the heads of the opposite players and descends behind them. Then shrill, rolling cries of good-humored triumph arise from the victors, and the game instantly begins again with fresh zest.

There are, of course, no such rules as in a specialized ball game of civilization, and I saw no disputes. There may be eight or ten, or many more players on each side. The ball is never touched with the hands or feet, or with anything except the top of the head. It is hard to decide whether to wonder most at the dexterity and strength with which it is hit or butted with the head, as it comes down through the air, or at the reckless speed and skill with which the players throw themselves headlong on the ground to return the ball if it comes low down. Why they do not grind off their noses I cannot imagine. Some of the players hardly ever failed to catch and return the ball if it came in their neighborhood, and with such a vigorous toss of the head that it often flew in a great curve for a really astonishing distance.—Theodore Roosevelt, in Scribner's Magazine.

Seine Broke; Fish Got Away.

After having been for eight weeks on the Cape Shore fishing grounds off Nova Scotia seeking mackerel the fishing schooner Veda McKown reached the fish pier with only 5,000 large, fresh and 127 barrels of salted mackerel in her hold.

Crew members complained of the hard luck encountered during the trip, and after the schooner had tied up circulated that the breaking of a seine cost them about $2,000. The schooner encountered a large school of mackerel off Canso. The seine boat was quickly launched and within a short time had circled the school with the seine. However, the seine broke as it was pursed, and all except the 5,000 mackerel which the schooner brought escaped.

The fishermen estimated that there were fully twenty thousand fish in the school, and each of the 15,000 that got away would have been worth 15 cents at the fish pier, that being the price quoted for large, fresh mackerel.

Monocle as a Courage Inspirer.

Jack Heaton Armstrong, an aristocratic young Englishman, has just returned home from Albania with a story of the awe in which his monocle was held by the unsophisticated soldiers of the Moret, while he was in command of a field gun used against the rebels.

Armstrong, who is a brother of the private secretary of Prince William, set out from Alesso with Chief Prenk for the relief of the prince, then besieged in his capital. Prenk had 2,000 men and one field gun. Armstrong commanded the gun.

No matter how hot the fire, the soldiers never deserted the gun, which was aimed and fired by the monocled Englishman. As they had never seen a monocle before they thought it essential to aiming, or a kind of range finder. Armstrong did not dispel their illusion.

News on the Ocean.

The first transatlantic liner to publish a newspaper made up of wireless items was the American liner St. Paul. It was 14 years ago while Mr. Marconi was crossing the Atlantic on that vessel that he personally directed the issuing of the first number of the Transatlantic Times, the first wireless newspaper published at sea. Such publications now include the Daily Bulletin of the Cunard line, Das Atlantische Tageblatt of the Hamburg-American and the Ocean Times of the White Star line. On the Pacific on the steamers running to Alaska the Wireless Herald is published. The stations at Poldhu and Cape Cod furnish most of the wireless news received on board the transatlantic liners in regard to what is going on on shore.

HUNTING ATTENDED BY ACCIDENT OF MUCH SERIOUSNESS

With the flesh of his left arm torn into shreds from wrist to elbow and greatly weakened by the loss of blood, J. C. McLaughlin, aged 20 years of Library, is in the Washington hospital in a critical condition as a result of the first reported hunting accident of the season in Washington county.

The mishap occurred about mid-afternoon Tuesday near the residence of William M. Cregg, in the Prosperity region. McLaughlin and J. M. Lachman of Finleyville, were companions on a hunting trip.

Deciding to scour a piece of woodland near the Gregg residence while enroute to Claysville, Lachman, who was driving brought the machine to a stop and McLaughlin started to climb out of the rear seat which he occupied.

As he prepared to step from the car his gun slipped from his grasp and the trigger was caught or struck on the running board, discharging the loaded weapon. He had placed his left hand on the back of the front seat and the entire load struck this arm.

With blood spurting from the shredded flesh of his arm McLaughlin was taken to the Gregg home by his companion.

One bone in the left arm was broken in several places and the members was so badly mangled that an operation was deemed necessary. It was performed but Tuesday evening McLaughlin's condition was reported to be very critical and but little hope held out for his recovery.

MANY UNEMPLOYED IN STATE CHIEF JACKSON FINDS

John Price Jackson, commissioner of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry states that the department named found among 802 manufacturing plants in Pennsylvania that the minimum employes between June, 1913 and June, 1914, which in most of the plants occurred toward the latter date, was 323,415, while the maximums occurring in the same plants between those dates amounted to 449,138. This means that about 125,000 or over a quarter of all employed, either lost or left their positions in these 802 plants during the year.

It will be understood that the number of plants thus investigated is only a small proportion of the total in the commonwealth. The relative proportion of those losing their positions in the tens of thousands of smaller undertakings not investigated is undoubtedly larger. Even if the average number of days is small during which each one is idle of the enormous number of persons involuntarily out of work.

Suggestions that Pennsylvania municipalities undertake public works as far as expedient as a means of providing work for unemployed are made by Dr. Jackson.

Station to be Abandoned.

Coal Bluff on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania will be abandoned as a station on December 1 as part of the economy program of the company. At the same time the Shire Oaks station will be moved 1,370 yards south of its present site to serve both districts.

GEORGETOWN TO FACE PITT ON SATURDAY

University of Pittsburg has the crack Georgetown University football team as the fifth attraction of the season next Saturday and an interesting game is expected. Georgetown held Navy to a 13-0 score early in the season and has been coming strong ever since. The Pittsburg boys won from Navy, although the game was nip and tuck all the way, and they all have a healthy regard for a team that can keep the Middies down to two touchdowns.

Pitt has made a fine record thus far and her rooters expect the team to go into the W. & J. game, November 7, with an absolutely clean slate. Victories have been achieved over Cornell, Navy, the Carlisle Indians and Westminister College. With Georgetown and Dickinson the two obstacles before the W. & J. game, this record should be attained.

All of Pitt's new players are showing up well and it looks as though the material is better than it has ever been in the history of the game at the University. De Hart, Hastings, Miller, Hanley, Sutherland and Carlson are all good men. De Hart took Williamson's place at quarterback in the Carlisle game and was the star of the struggle. He pulled off many long runs. Hastings was also a central figure, his field goal early in the game giving the team the confidence it needed. The red haired Kiski boy will be a big assest for Pitt in the W. & J. game as field goal kickers will likely play a prominent part in this game.

Miller is working well in the backfield. He comes from Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pa. He is a fine defensive player. Sutherland is green but a willing worker and quick to learn. In another year he will be a star. Lee Collins is showing great line plunging ability at fullback. Fry, Ward, Heil and Dillon are other backfield stars. Williamson, regular quarterback, was hurt in the Navy game, and didn't get in against Carlisle. He will be saved for W. & J.

JURY ADVISES AUTHORITIES TO LOOK FOR MISSING MEN

Coroner James Heffran held an inquest Tuesday afternoon to inquire into the death of John Baretz whose death occurred at Shire Oaks, October 12, following a fight. After hearing the evidence of some eight or ten witnesses the jury returned the following verdict. "We the jury find that John Baretz came to his death at Shire Oaks on October 12, 1914, from peritonitis, as the result of rupture of intestines as the result of injuries inflicted by kicks or blows at the hands of Frank Coronish and Charley Mitroski. We recommend that the said Frand Coronish and Charles Mitroski be apprehended and held to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of murder.

Poultry in Sack! Who's?

An Appeal to the People of Pennsylvania

It is in the interest of the public—whose chief concern is good service and safety—that the Extra Crew Law now on the Statute books of Pennsylvania and other States be repealed. This law causes a waste of $1,100,000 annually in the employment of unnecessary men on the Pennsylvania System alone.

No one is more concerned than the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in securing maximum safety on its lines. Every train on this railroad has a full crew, and this extra expenditure adds nothing to safety or public convenience. The same money had much better be spent to remove grade crossings, improve tracks, signals, and bridges, and buy steel cars. This extra crew law, which compels unnecessary expenditures, is one of the factors which menaces the ability of this Company to pay present rates of wages to that great body of employes whose activities are needed.

The Public Service Commission should see to it that all trains are properly manned. Such action would amply protect employes and the public. We appeal to the people in their own interest, we appeal to our employes in their best interest, to ask their representatives in the next Pennsylvania Legislature to repeal the Extra Crew Law.

SAMUEL REA,
President, Pennsylvania Railroad Company
